

Jefferson County 509J Family Involvement Policy

Most of the time, school news will be given to families in both English and their first language.

Families will get a copy of the family involvement plan and what to do to make a complaint.

Schools will have at least one meeting each year for families to give their ideas for making the school better.

Schools will tell families the school goals every year.

School programs will be planned with help from families.

Schools will invite families to be a part of their children's learning. Teachers and school staff will be at these school programs to talk with families.

Schools will have licensed teachers teaching children.

Families will be given news about how their children and the school are doing.

Families will be told the dates and times for teacher conferences.

To help all families be a part of school programs, schools will help families get to the programs. Schools will also help with childcare at the program.

Schools will have translators at school programs.

Schools will help families be a part of school programs even when their first language is not English, they are homeless, disabled, or move around a lot.
